

Rohrbeck Heger
strategic foresight + innovation

Foresight Consultant (Full-time)

SUMMARY OF POSITION

We're looking for an ambitious Senior Consultant to help us build foresight capabilities for some of the world's leading organizations.

Foresight Consultants play a key role in client engagement – implementing projects with clients and guiding them through complex decision-making in an uncertain future, directing and deepening the client relationship over time. As part of a forward-thinking, highly-motivated and international team of consultants and analysts you will apply innovation and foresight methods, implement and integrate practices into our clients' business units, strategy and R&D departments.

KEY TASKS & RESPONSIBILITIES

- Support in scoping and delivering projects
- Lead sub-projects and work packages independently
- Designing and facilitating workshops
- Preparing presentations and reports
- Developing and maturing internal best practices and processes

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS & EXPERIENCE

Ideally, you have the proven ability to:

- Design and execute strategy and innovation activities
- Knowledge of Foresight methodologies – horizon scanning, scenario development, etc.
- Understand stakeholder needs and manage their expectations
- Quickly grasp new topics & concepts
- Communicate clearly – short and to the point
- Excellent command of English and German (fluent or native, C2)
- Highly proficient in Powerpoint, Excel, and other relevant programs
- Advantage: Experience with major transformation themes such as digitalization, sustainability or servitization and/or the future of specific industries or sectors

You have a university degree in a relevant subject area, and 3-5 years of experience in at least two of the following domains:

- Strategy/Innovation
- Consulting
- Strategic Foresight
- Market/Technology Intelligence
